MISS MARGARET MINOR, who has been the house guest of Miss Phyllis Jones for the past several weeks, is now visiting Miss Emily Royall on West Franklin Street. Miss Minor has been entertained at several very pretty dinners given at the Country Club during her stay in Richmond. Last week Seddon Jones was host at dinner at the club house in Miss Minor's honor. Covers were laid for six, and guests present included Miss Minor, Miss Phyllis Jones, Miss Virginia Taylor, of Wilmington, N. C.; Mr. Jones and James Ellison. The table was set with pink flowers, and the candles were shaded in rose color.

Miss Minor will leave Richmond next week for her home, "Gale Hill," where she will entertain a number of her friends during the remainder of the summer.

Dance at Chester.
Quite a party of Richmond people spent yesterday at Chester, and attended the dance given last night at the Chester Hotel. There were a number of fishing parties entertained during the day, and a display of fireworks late in the evening.

Morehead-Carhart.
A wedding of much interest here will be celebrated this afternoon at half-past 4 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lambert Martin, at Catawba, when Miss Willie Chappell Carhart, of Richmond, will become the bride of Clyde Morehead, formerly of Pulaski, now of Dublin. The entire house will be arranged in dahlia and white, and Mrs. Edward Holland, of Danville, will act as matron of honor. All those desiring to attend, let the Rev. J. W. C. Johnson, rector of

WILL BE MARRIED SOON

MISS WILLIE CHAPPELL CARHART, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Carhart, of this city, and Clyde Morehead, of Dublin, whose wedding will be celebrated this afternoon at Catawba.

St. John's Church, in Roanoke, will perform the ceremony, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" will be played as a processional.

The bride will enter the drawing room on the arm of her father, who will also give her away. She will be handsomely gowned in a going-away suit of lavender broadcloth, trimmed in jet and black satin, with hat and gloves to match. She will carry a prayer-book with markers of lilacs of the valley. The bride's only attendant will be Miss Bertha Triplett, of Washington, assistant head nurse at Catawba Sanatorium, who will act as maid of honor. Miss Triplett will wear a white lace robe and carry pines tied with tulle. Hysor Morehead, of this city, will act as his brother's best man.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Morehead will leave for Mountain Lake, Bald Knob and other resorts. A number of Richmond people will be present at the wedding.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Carhart, formerly of Catawba Sanatorium, now of Richmond, and is a daughter of the Virginia Hospital, in this city. For the past two years she has been head nurse at the Catawba Sanatorium.

At the Bench.
Miss Alice Nelson, who has been spending some time in Lynchburg as the house guest of Miss Jennie Strother, left town yesterday for Willoughby Beach. Miss Nelson will be the guest of Mrs. Thomas Jefferson, who is entertaining a house party at her cottage at Willoughby Beach for this week.

Summer at the White.
A recent Washington exchange contains the following article of interest to society in Richmond:

"Mrs. Ordway, widow of General Albert Ordway, and her granddaughter, Miss Valeria Padelford, have gone to the White Sulphur Springs, where they have taken a cottage for the season. Miss Padelford's mother was one of the great beauties and belles of the White Sulphur Springs, as Miss Betty Ordway, and her daughter is destined to meet with the same social success, because of her own personal charms.

Daughters Meet.
The regular meeting of the Chesterfield Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was held on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. B. A. Hancock, of Forest Hill. A guest of the chapter at this meeting was Mrs. Norman V. Randolph, president of the Richmond Chapter, U. D. C. The treasurer's report showed $32.25 turned over to relief fund and $3 for the Shiloh Monument fund. The chapter indorsed the resolutions written by the Southern Cross Chapter at Salem, dated April 20, 1911, and protests against the use of Elson's history in Southern schools. The sale of Confederate seals was enthusiastically indorsed, and an order to the amount of $500 was received and filed. Seventeen crosses of honor were reported to have been presented by this chapter in Lee Camp Hall on June 2, and plans were made for the annual basket picnic, which takes place September 2 at Chesterfield Courthouse. One new member, Mrs. H. M. Lander, was received.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, a social hour was held, the hostesses, and the meeting adjourned to meet some time in September at the residence of Mrs. Ada Lee Taylor, 2503 Floyd Avenue, Richmond, leaving for Australia.

Mr. Walthall is leaving town this week to visit his brother, Chris Walthall, at his home in Brisbane, Australia. Mr. Walthall will also visit his children in Eastern cities, and spend some time with relatives in Denver and San Francisco before sailing for Australia from the latter city.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Bryan left town yesterday for San Francisco, from which they expect to sail on Tuesday, June 12, for a trip around the world. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will stop in St. Louis and other Western cities en route for the coast. They will be absent from Richmond for the next six months.

Entertained in Fairfax.
Mrs. Pettit was guest of honor last week at card party given by the Misses Moore at their home in Fairfax. Mrs. Durham, of this city, was awarded the first prize and Mrs. Pettit the guest prize. Decorations were in yellow flowers, and tea was served at the conclusion of the game. Mrs. W. W. Long also entertained at cards last week in honor of Mrs. Pettit, 500 being played.

In and Out of Town.
Miss Mary Johnston and party have arrived in Rotterdam, Holland, and will go this week to Amsterdam for a few days.

Mrs. R. T. Hunter, who spent last week at Mount Elliott Springs, is now at the Seaside Hotel in Atlantic City.

Miss Ruth Hopkins, of this city, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Flora Glasgow, in Alexandria.

went dry again. I finally descended in a little clearing. I borrowed five gallons of gasoline from an owner of an automobile, and made a good getaway."

"It was during the fly from Tucker-ton across to the outskirts of this city that I had my hardest fight to keep in the air. The velocity of the wind here was the strongest of the trip. It took me until 2 o'clock to make that last seventeen miles, but I must have made at least fifty air miles.

"The wind grew more treacherous as I swung up to Venice Park on the outskirts of Atlantic City. I encountered air bumps and air holes that made the going rather difficult. To make matters worse, my gasoline ran out again. I came down and narrowly missed disaster, when a puff of wind caught the plane about 100 feet from the ground. I was almost thrown from my seat as the wind got under the wings, and again when I struck the ground. That was my narrowest escape. I expected to go head over heels, but managed to hold on until the machine stopped.

Machine Undamaged.
"I felt the shock, but found my machine undamaged, and continued after taking on five more gallons. When I circled over the ocean I found the currents the most stable of my flight, and made a successful landing in Atlantic City."

Atwood left Governor's Island, in New York Bay, at 8:45 A. M. and landed at Park Place, Atlantic City, at 2:30 P. M.

Atwood's appearance here created a sensation, as it was not generally known that he would attempt his flight to the national capital or that this resort would be one of his points. The boardwalk was crowded with a holiday throng, when he hove in sight, and when he alighted he was cheered by thousands of people. His landing place was close to the boardwalk between the Marlborough-Blenheim and Brighton Hotels.

His landing was perfect, and his machine was in fine condition when he finished the flight. Atwood was Enthusiastic approval of the plan for acquisition of the Memorial Hospital by the city is given by many leading physicians of Richmond and by many members of the City Council, though a few members of the faculty of the Medical College of Virginia have expressed the hope that the city will not divest itself of the hospital, and that the Memorial will continue to be operated as at present. The offer of the Memorial board to the City Council to turn the institution over to the city under certain conditions is the outgrowth of long negotiations, and is largely the work of Chairman H. K. Pollard, Jr., of the Council Committee on Finance.

Several years ago the City Hospital connected with the Almshouse was reorganized and placed under a volunteer staff, under the leadership of Dr. George Ben Johnston, all of the physicians and surgeons giving their services to the poor of the city without compensation. At that time the step was toward a city hospital, but the plan was abandoned from the Almshouse, and a further move in that direction.

The medical staff has recently recommended the establishment of a training school for nurses at the City Hospital.

How It Came About.
Some months ago the medical staff brought the need for a separate public hospital, not connected with the Almshouse, to the attention of the Committee on Relief of the Poor, which, after debate, unanimously recommended to the Council that plans be prepared for such an institution. Later Dr. Charles R. Robins headed a committee from the Memorial Hospital, which appeared before the Council Finance Committee, asking that the city appropriation to the Memorial be increased.

Dr. Robins represented that the Memorial was doing a large amount of charity work, having, in fact, more free beds than some hospitals in the city have beds in all. He stated that the institution, while admirably equipped, had an insufficient endowment, and could not longer continue its large free work without adequate support. The idea then occurred to Chairman Pollard that since the Memorial had an ideal plant, which it confessed itself as being hardly able to operate, and since the need for a public city hospital was obvious to all, that a mutual agreement could be reached, and as far back as last February he entered into negotiations with E. L. Bemiss and Eppa Hunt, Jr., of the Memorial board, which resulted in the formal transmission to the Council on Monday night.

Accident and Acute Cases.
If the offer is accepted, as seems a foregone conclusion, the hospital will be used for all acute cases arising from the indigent of the city, and for all ambulance and emergency cases of whatever nature, the hospital wing of the Almshouse being continued for chronic cases, tuberculosis and incurable diseases. The ambulances would be operated directly from the Memorial, and all dispensary work, treatment of the outdoor poor, and clinical work would be from the city's central hospital. At present the basement of the Memorial is used for free treatment of colored people. It has been suggested that in the event of the institution being acquired by the city, adjoining property be condemned, with a view of erecting one or more wards for colored people, and offices for dispensaries and other requirements of a public free hospital.

A point of discussion among doctors and others is whether any charge would be made in the event that the institution were maintained by the city, the consensus of opinion seeming to be that those who are able to pay should pay minimum fees, but that no one should be turned away for lack of means, and that the treatment in all cases should be the same, pay or free. This is said to be the rule in the Henry Grady Hospital, maintained by the city of Atlanta, and in many similar institutions throughout the country.

Admirably Arranged.
In answer to objections that have been raised by those who say that the Memorial was not designed as a free hospital, they familiar with the building and its uses say that it is admirably arranged, and could be so used without any alterations whatever. The partitions separating the private rooms are all so arranged that they can be removed or rearranged, enlarging the number of wards. The institution was opened for patients August 1, 1903, and has since ranked as one of the first grade hospitals of this country, drawing patients from many sections because of its admirable equipment. The present board of trustees is composed of John L. Williams, John Skelton Williams, Fred E. Nolting, E. L. Bemiss, Colonel William H. Palmer, William M. Habington, E. B. Addison, Egbert G. Leigh, Jr., L. M. Williams, Henry C. Stuart, Lewis C. Williams, Charles Davenport, John Rutherford, Wyndham R. Meredith, Judge Beverly T. Crump, Eppa Hunt, Jr., Dr. Ennion G. Williams, E. T. Myers, Jr., and Dr. George Ben Johnston. No objection can be raised to the clause in the offer requiring the city to assume the present debt of about $40,000 on the institution, as the institution will transfer to the city an invested endowment exceeding $50,000, mainly the contribution of the principal founder, John L. Williams. The location is central, convenient to all railway stations, and adjoining the civic centre surrounding the Capitol Square. The city has recently acquired the entire block between the Memorial Hospital and the City Hall for public purposes.

Fireproof Construction.
The construction is fireproof throughout, and of the most approved sanitary methods, the walls being of solid brick and malachite, with three-inch floors laid on iron girders. Soundproof walls prevent the transmission of noises from one ward to another. Electric passenger and freight elevators are enclosed in brick shafts. The heating and ventilating plants are described as being of the most complete and scientific design, the main boilers being capable of caring for indefinite extensions, should additional wings be erected, while the kitchens and dining rooms and administration offices would suffice for an institution of four times the present capacity. The plumbing is modern and sanitary.

Accommodates 140 Patients.
There is an elaborate system of ventilation connected with every part of the building, drawing the vitiated air into large flues with exits above the roof. There are at present thirty-seven private rooms, and a large Western wing, with accommodations for forty-eight private patients. In the eastern wing there are six wards, with ninety-two beds, the administration building connecting the two wings. In this are located the superintendent's office, clerical office, reception rooms and X-ray room. Diet kitchens are fully equipped on each floor. There are three operating rooms, two private and one surrounded by a large clinical amphitheatre, for the use of medical students. A have the much desired northern light, and are fully equipped and connected with surgeon's and nurses' dressing rooms, sterilizing rooms and instrument rooms.

The hospital laboratories are equipped with the latest appliances for making analyses and examinations of pathological conditions, and afford every aid to correct diagnosis. Complete equipment is provided for electric therapeutics.

Will Hear Volunteer Staff.
The offer of the Memorial board is before the Council, and at the meeting on Friday night will be referred to some committee for consideration—either the Committee on Relief of the Poor or the Committee on Finance. The Committee on Relief of the Poor is already on record as favoring a public city hospital, entirely separated from the Almshouse, and has a subcommittee at work on estimates of the annual cost of the maintenance of such an institution. It is anticipated that when the matter is placed before the appropriate committee the views of the volunteer staff of the present City Home Hospital will be invited, as those physicians, working without compensation, and with the most meagre equipment, have worked wonders in the Almshouse wing assigned them, and it is largely on their advice as to the need of a general public hospital that the matter has come to the present issue and that the liberal offer of the Memorial board has been made.

Expected to Act on Reciprocity

Washington, July 4.—Many Senators not engaged in the inquiry have expressed a desire to observe the demeanor of witnesses before the Senate committee charged with the investigation of the election of William Lorimer to the United States Senate.

Their desire to watch the witnesses, particularly the confessed bribe-takers, who are expected to be examined after the committee reconvenes, nine days from now, is with a view to informing themselves in connection with the case when it comes to a vote in the Senate.

So great promises to be the attendance of these outside Senators that a large hearing-room will be procured, if possible, for the committee's sessions, to replace the present cramped quarters.

It was largely to afford these Senators an opportunity to attend the hearings and because of the committee members wanting to remain here in connection with other legislative matters while Congress is in session that the committee decided to continue its hearings in Washington instead of resuming them in Chicago, deferring that trip until probably in August. During the recent sessions the daily attendance has been so great that Senators who came to the hearing-room late had difficulty in getting good seats.

John H. Marble and J. J. Healy, attorneys for the committee, taking advantage of the recess, are searching for new evidence. Hundreds of letters have been received by the committee suggesting lines of evidence, commenting on the character of witnesses already heard by the committee, and giving advice generally. All these communications have been turned over to the attorneys and anything that promises to be of value is being investigated.
